The Carson Tribune says:
To those who think the State of Nevada is going backward we have simply to say "brace up," for as we look over the State we see a great future before it. A few years since there was little produced outside of the mineral wealth of the Comstock, and while this was the wonder of the world it was like all ore bodies destined to be worked out. Today we not only have great mineral wealth, but we have what is still better. Hundreds of small valleys are being brought to the front by men who have come to the conclusion that the climate and soil of Nevada, when properly understood, will bring to the State a thrifty and progressive people.

It is a well-known fact that there is no State in the Union where cattle can be so cheaply raised as in this State. Very few "Winter kill" and the great variety of Winter feed makes this State a very desirable beef-raising section, for, while in Wyoming the snow storms are killing cattle by the thousands, and the Texas fever is playing havoc among the herds of that State, and in California the dry season takes hundreds of head, the cattle of Nevada are growing fat on the white and black sage, which only grows sweet and palatable to cattle after it has been touched by Winter's frost.

The mineral wealth of the State is yet hardly uncovered, for, while the Comstock is not producing as it once did, it is still yielding largely, and the enterprising townsmen, Yerington, Bliss and others in opening up mines along the line of the C. & C. road is adding to the mineral resources of the State. Cobalt and nickel are found in fine quality in the State. Sulphur, salt, soda and coal are being produced, and it requires only a little careful and far-seeing legislation to, in a few years, bring the State to the front. If a commission of well-known and reliable men who have large interests in the State were appointed by the coming Legislature to consider the question of irrigation, with power to expend a few hundred dollars in making surveys, with a view to ascertaining where water could be husbanded during the season when water is running to waste, it might be of great and lasting advantage to the State.

The history of the growth of cities offers few examples more surprising than that of the double-headed metropolis of Minnesota. Minneapolis and St. Paul are so near each other—less than ten miles apart—that they may be considered virtually one. In 1880 Minneapolis had a population of 46,887 and by the State census, just taken, it is shown to have a present population of 128,209. St. Paul has increased in the same time from 41,473 to 111,397. By 1890 these two adjoining towns will have grown into a splendid city having over 400,000 population, and will be the new Chicago of the Northwest.

The Carson Free Lance says: "The Reno JOURNAL revives its old circular map showing Reno as the center of the earth and the rest of the world revolving around it. This is correct—according to the Reno idea; and this makes Reno what it is—the most enterprising, prosperous, progressive and flourishing city in Nevada. This she is without any exceptional advantages and with nothing but the public spirit of her citizens to keep her up. If the people of Carson had half the push that is manifested in Reno this city could be made the metropolis of the State."

It is stated by United States Surveyor-General Brown, of California, that there has been no available appropriation for the present year and no surveys have been ordered this Summer. Business in his department, is, accordingly, rather dull now, and on September 5th he will be compelled to materially reduce the number of his employees.

Roscoe Conkling is to be asked by the Boston City Government to deliver the oration at the Grant memorial services. John Boyle O'Reilly probable will serve as the poet of the day, and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe is to read an ode.

Emperor William is at present enjoying better health than he has for a long time previous to the recent Summer excursion.

A Cincinnati girl has invited a combination battle and chair. It will be very popular for skating rinks next Winter.

OUTRAGE ON A SLEEPER.
A Young Lady Severely Assaulted by a Burglar.

The San Francisco Alta says: Mr. Knapp and family and a young lady under their guardianship are at present guests at the Palace Hotel. They are en route to Melbourne, whence they sail on Saturday. Mr. Knapp is one of the wealthiest and most prominent merchants in Melbourne. All were passengers by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road from Chicago to Omaha on Wednesday, the 16th inst. About a quarter past 1 on the morning of that day, the young lady referred to was dealt a violent blow while she was lying in her berth, over her right eye, from which the blood flowed in a steady stream. Not losing consciousness, the lady shrieked out from the intensity of her pain, as well as from fright. The man who struck the blow, evidently nonplused, jumped for the bell-rope, which he pulled vigorously, the result being the immediate stoppage of the train. The coach was the last one in the train, and when it slowed up he ran to the rear platform and, leaping off, was soon lost in the darkness. The young lady was apparently taken for Mr. Knapp, hence the attack. Mr. Knapp carried a large pocket-book well filled with bank bills, which no doubt excited the cupidity of the rascal. It is thought the blow was inflicted with steel knuckles or a sand-bag. The sleeping-car, at the time of the attack, was without any protection, the conductor being in the smoking-car two coaches forward and the porter asleep. Mr. Knapp has instructed his agent in Chicago to begin proceedings against the Pullman Company for damages in the sum of $50,000.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES FOR FALL.

Collected by the JOURNAL for its Lady Readers.

Lace and Moire are features in early Fall fashions.
The train is permanently revived for full dress costumes.
White veiling remains a favorite sea-side evening dress fabric.

The coiffure, the hat, and the bonnet all show increase in height this Fall.

The latest craze in fancy work is the making of tissue paper artificial flowers. 'Tis pity but 'tis true that hats are more formidably tall than ever this Fall.

Lead, jet, porcelain, wooden and iridescent glass beads of large sizes are all very fashionable.

Tucks above a lace flounce appear on many pretty youthful Fall or late Summer frocks.

A full sagging puff below a short pointed bolice is a pretty style for a slender youthful figure.

Very large collars of Venetian lace are revived for wear with frocks made with blouse or plain housemaid wrists.

Late Summer and early Fall hats are trimmed with bows and masses of canvas woven stuffs or scarfs of canvas.

The Fall fabrics are not canvas woven but shew canvas and rough effects in having woolen threads woven close, firm, but soft not wiry in texture.

White frocks for Fall wear at the beach and in the mountains are made of white canvas, woven wool with borders of curled mohair wool, or astrakhan borders woven into the fabrics.

A narrow colored ribbon tied around the neck, not below the collar, with the bow on one side or directly in front at pleasure, is the frequent accessory of the toilet this season.

Cattlemen Obeying Orders.

Only to-day remains of the forty allowed by the President's proclamation for the removal of cattle and cattlemen from Indian Territory. The War Department has been informed that no preparations have been made for expediting the departure of cattlemen as all concerned are fully satisfied that the orders to cattlemen to move out of the Territory will be obeyed in good faith and with all the expedition possible. Reports have been received at army headquarters that one of the principal lessees has removed his entire herd beyond the boundaries of the Indian Territory, and that all others appear to be moving as rapidly as possible.

HARPER'S SCHOOL GEOGRAPHIES.

The Errors Known in the Board But Not Made Public.

Upon this subject Prof. Young, in his Carson Free Lance says:

The public has discovered something new. As is usual in great discoveries everybody is anxious to claim the honor of the discovery. A correspondent from Reno to the Virginia Enterprise first published it to the world; the Reno Journal next expands upon the discovery; but it now turns out that the State Board of Education was in possession of the discovery weeks before its publication, and neither of the foregoing discoverers is likely to harvest any glory. That there are errors in Harper's School Geography was well known when it was adopted. However, the book sent to the retail dealers is not of the same edition as the samples in the hands of the Board of Education. In the number of mistakes the latter surpasses the former as three to one. But in fact there is no geography without these mistakes. Cornell's, Swinton's, Monteth's and Appleton's all have them, some of which have them even in greater abundance than Harper's. But when the latter was adopted Mr. H. P. Bancroft, the agent, promised to make any corrections required by the Board. To this contract the Board will hold the firm. The maps will be corrected in our State land office, and the literary part of the revised geography pertaining to Nevada will probably be written by Hon. D. R. Sessions. This will necessitate a delay in the exchange of about four months, or until January 1st, 1886.

Bishop Whitaker's first choice is Harper's geography, and on file in the office of the Secretary of the Board is the recommendation for this book of Superintendent J. W. Whiteher, of Storey county, as well as that of nearly every other County Supt. of Schools in Nevada. That it is greatly superior to Cornell's can not be questioned by any "practical teacher" of sound mind; that there is no better geography published is universally admitted. If it be not the best it might be well for "the practical teacher" who has not been consulted by the Board of Education in making this change, to name a geography which is his ideal. Harper's has been adopted in Montana, Washington Territory, and in very many of the Eastern States, and in over thirty counties of California. It has probably a greater circulation and a greater popularity than any similar text-book published in the United States.

We do not believe either the Enterprise correspondent or the JOURNAL desire any glory as discoverers. All they objected to was the manifest injustice of introducing a geography with so many errors into the public school. If the Board knew of the fact, as is claimed, they did right in exacting a revised edition, but the Professor admits the book introduced was not exactly of the character. Bancroft admits that those sent to Nevada were old ones that had laid upon the shelf, and that the clerk made a mistake. Everything will be all right January 1st, and that will be preferable to having silently permitted the inaccurate ones being introduced now. The Board of Education should first know it is right and then go ahead.
